Customer Story

A global retailer struggled with inefficient access to critical market intelligence, with thousands of industry reports, customer surveys, and product data sheets scattered across siloed systems. By integrating Unframe's AI-native enterprise search, teams across regions working in 50+ languages now instantly retrieve insights using natural language queries, eliminating manual searches and reducing research time by 80%. Unframe seamlessly integrated with existing knowledge management systems, ensuring full security and compliance without any data leaving the retailer's environment.
